First and only separate edition.

Includes Essays on Fernando Pessoa, José Régio, Fernanda de Castro, Portuguese Modernists, Japanese Poetry, and More

FIRST and ONLY EDITION; it includes essays on Oliveira Salazar, Aquilino Ribeiro, Maëtterlinck, Fernando Pessoa, Manuel Teixeira-Gomes, Fernanda de Castro, José Régio, Helen Grace Carlisle, Guilherme de Faria, Léon Chestov, Samuel Maia, Anrique Paço d’Arcos, Alfredo Cortez, Japanese poetry, and the Portuguese Modernists.

The ultra-conservative Catholic author Manuel [Gonçalves de Castro] Anselmo (Valdares, 1911-Lisbon, 1992), critic, essayist, and political activist. His best known work is perhaps Os Cadernos de Manuel Anselmo, published in 6 numbers, 1951-1961, which included fiction, poetry, literary criticism, political accounts, and polemics. Though a follower of Salazar who held various diplomatic and other posts under the Estado Novo, Manuel Anselmo was far from completely orthodox in his devotion to right-wing causes. For example, he dedicated his novel O pecado original to the Brazilian communist author Jorge Amado, and his 1954 publication Para uma nova ressurreição de Cristo was seized by the P.D.E.

FIRST EDITION. In addition to describing the Jesuit missions to the Malabar coast, Barreto reports on the mission in Ceylon, as well as those to Bengal and the Coromandel coast. There is a French translation, of which there appear to be editions of Tournay, 1645, Paris, 1645 and Paris, 1646.

Father Francisco Barreto, S.J. (Montemor-o-Novo, 1608-Goa, 1663), missionary in India and educator in Goa, was also rector of the Jesuit colleges of Coulão and Cochin. He was Procurador for the province of Malabar at the Roman Curia, attending the 8th and 9th general congregations of the Jesuit Order. Returning to India, he was nominated Provincial for Malabar, and later Visírador for the province of Goa. Nominated Bishop of Cochin by D. Afonso VI. and then Archbishop of Langranor, he died prior to ever taking up either post.

Hernâni [António] Cidade (Redondo 1887-Évora 1975) is best known as an author of literary and cultural history and of literary biography. For a half century, he was a major force in the cultural life of Portugal. Cidade taught school in Coimbra, Leiria, Porto and Lisbon before moving on to an illustrious career in higher education at the Universities of Porto and Lisbon. In his youth Cidade was linked to the modernist movement, having been involved with the reviews Águia and Seara Nova, among others. He also collaborated in reviews such as those of the Faculdades de Letras of both Lisbon and Porto, newspapers (especially O Primeiro de Janeiro), and numerous collective projects such as the Grande enciclopédia portuguesa e brasileira and Dicionário de literatura. With Joaquim de Carvalho and Mário de Azevedo Gomes he edited the Diário liberal (Lisbon, 1934-1935); with Reynaldo dos Santos and Bernardo Marques he founded Colóquio—revista de artes e letras (1959-1970), and with Jacinto do Prado Coelho, in 1971, Colóquio / Letras (these last two published by the Gulbenkian Foundation).

Provenance: Américo Cortez Pinto (1896-1979), physician, writer, poet and historian, native of the freguesia de Cortes in the concelho de Leiria. Américo Cortez Pinto studied at Coimbra, interned at Leira, served as a parliamentary deputy, a member of the Lisbon municipal council, and inspector of health studies, among other posts. He contributed to literary reviews such as A Tradição, Contemporânea, A Galera, Letras e Artes, and Icaro, of which he was one of the founders, along with Ernesto Gonçalves, Cabral do Nascimento, and Luís Vieira de Castro. In addition to a considerable output of poetry, prose, literary and historical works, he is best known for the polemical Da famosa arte da impressão: da imprensa em Portugal às cruzadas d’Além-Mar (1948), in which he defended the priority of Leiria in Portuguese Christian typography. While Chaves currently is agreed to have been the earliest Portuguese Christian printing site, Cortez Pinto’s investigations and conclusions regarding the diffusion of printing in Africa and Asia by the Portuguese remain valuable. Hernâni Cidade was one of Cortez Pinto’s closest friends. Others were Afonso Lopes Vieira, Carlos Queiroz, Lino António, António José Saraiva, Sebastião Pestana, and Mário Saa. On Cortez Pinto, see Paulo J. Pedrosa S. Gomes in Biblos, IV, 179-80; also Dicionário cronológico de autores portugueses, III, 501-3; and Grande enciclopédia, VII, 818 and Actualização III, 498.

With Joaquim de Carvalho and Mário de Azevedo Gomes he edited the Diário liberal (Lisbon, 1934-1935); with Reynaldo dos Santos and Bernardo Marques he founded Colóquio — revista de artes e letras (1959-1970), and with Jacinto do Prado Coelho, in 1971, Colóquio / Letras (these last two published by the Gulbenkian Foundation).

Provenance: Américo Cortez Pinto (1896-1979), physician, writer, poet and historian, native of the freguesia of Cortes in the concelho of Leiria. Américo Cortez Pinto studied at Coimbra, interned at Leiria, served as a parliamentary deputy, a member of the Lisbon municipal council, and inspector of health studies, among other posts. He contributed to literary reviews such as A Tradição, Contemporânea, A Galera, Letras e Artes, and Icero, of which he was one of the founders, along with Ernesto Gonçalves, Cabral do Nascimento, and Luís Vieira de Castro. In addition to a considerable output of poetry, prose, literary and historical works, he is best known for the polemical Da famosa arte da imprimissão: da imprensa em Portugal às cruzadas d’Além-Mar (1948), in which he defended the priority of Leiria in Portuguese Christian typography. While Chaves currently is agreed to have been the earliest Portuguese Christian printing site, Cortez Pinto’s investigations and conclusions regarding the diffusion of printing in Africa and Asia by the Portuguese remain valuable. Rare Play about a Brazilian Volunteer for the Paraguayan War
By a Physician from Paraíba do Norte who Volunteered

*36. CORDEIRO, Antonio da Cruz. Prologo da guerra ou o voluntario da patria. Ensaio dramatico em verso em 3 actos e um quadro. Rio de Janeiro: Typographia do Imperial Instituto Artistico, 1865. Large 8°, original green printed wrappers (head and foot of spine somewhat defective; some foxing). In very good condition. Three-line non-authorial contemporay presentation inscription in upper outer corner of half title. Old small white octagonal ticket with blue border and manuscript notation tipped on to upper inner corner of front cover. xxi pp., (1 l.), 167, (1) pp., (1 l. errata). $350.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this play, first performed first at the Theatrinho in Paraíba do Norte on 23 March 1865 to great applause, according to Sacramento Blake. It was also said to have been well received in Pernambuco and Bahia.

António da Cruz Cordeiro (Paraíba, 1831-Recife, 1895), physician, author, poet, and deputy to his provincial legislature, served as a volunteer in the medical corps during the Paraguayan War. He was Director of the Hospital da Misericórdia in Paraíba, and a member of several learned societies, such as the Instituto Archeologico e Geographico Pernambucano. This was his only play.

Said to be the fifth edition, corrected and augmented, of this rare work on orthography; the earliest edition we have seen recorded—in fact, the only other edition we have seen recorded dates to 1814.

The author feels that children should not have to wade through “extensos tractados, que talvez mais confundão” in order to learn proper spelling: the first 26 pages of this Resumosinho offer chapters on letters and syllables, capitalization, punctuation, accents, syllabification, doubled consonants, and the use of M and C.

One unusual element of this brief handbook is that the author also wants to make it easier for foreigners to pronounce Portuguese, so in Chapter VIII (pp. 26-31), he tells how to use the tongue and lips to form the letters from A to Z. For example: “E como ha-de fazer o som do V?” “Tocando com o beixo de baixo na extremidade dos dentes de cima, bufando mais brandamente do que no F, v.g. Vivo.”

Orthography held a fascination for Portuguese writers from the time of the eminent Duarte Nunes de Leão, who published Orthographia da lingoa portuguesa in 1576. In the centuries that followed, the rules of orthography were a frequent subject for debate and dispute, as they continue to be today.

Padre Francisco Pires da Costa, a priest belonging to the Congregação de S. Camilo de Lelis, was active in the first quarter of the nineteenth century. He had published other works in 1815 and 1817 using the initials P.F.P.C.

Six-line signed author’s ink presentation inscription to Luís [Forjaz] Trigueiros on title page. 34 pp., (1 l.). $45.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION of this oration by Guedes delivered on the evening of 5 February 1988 at the Círculo Eça de Queirós as part of the series “Confissões”.

[Manuel] Fernando [Ayres] Guedes [da Silva] (1929-2016), author and publisher, was in 1958 one of the founders of Editorial Verbo, for many years one of the leading Portuguese publishing houses. Poet of the group Tavala redonda, he directed the review Tempo presente from 1959 to 1961. He led and directed the Grêmio Nacional de Editores e Livreiros from 1968 and 1972, leading its successor, the Associação Portuguesa de Editores e Livreiros between 1982 and 1986. He was active in the Academia Nacional de Belas-Artes, Academia Portuguesa da História and Associação Portuguesa de Históriadores da Arte, and was President of the Círculo Eça de Queiroz. Guedes has devoted significant attention to the plastic arts, and to the history of literature, the book and reading in Portugal.

First and only separate edition.

First and only separate edition. N.º 13 of an unspecified but presumably small number of copies. These poems display the author’s theories regarding Galician orthography and the close relationship between the Galician and Portuguese languages.

Ernesto Guerra da Cal (1911-1994), Galician writer, philologist, Lusophile, and active Galician nationalist, fought in the Spanish Civil War in the Republican side. A friend of Federico García Lorca, the two attended in Madrid of the early Republic tertulias such as those of the Casa de las Flores, organized by Pablo Neruda, and of the Café Regina. He was one of the first theorists of Galician Reintegrationism. Exiled in the USA, he was professor emeritus of Spanish and comparative literature, Queens College, City University of New York, having also taught at New York University, Princeton and Columbia. Da Cal wrote extensively on Eça de Queiroz, producing the monumental and indispensable six-volume Bibliografía queirociana (1975-1984), as well as writing on themes of Gallego philology and orthography, in addition to a number of other topics.

Racist Rant Defending Slave Trade
Between Angola and Cabo Verde, São Tomé and Principe

*56. LEÃO, José Barbosa. Considerações sobre o transporte de pretos entre as colônias portuguesas d’África. Lisbon: Typographia Universal, 1864. 8°, stitched, in old plain green wrappers (front wrapper detached). Partly unopened. In good to very good condition. 60 pp. $400.00

First ad only separate edition. The author defends the forced transport of Africans, mainly from Angola to the Islands of Cabo Verde, São Tomé and Principe. He opposes any British interference. This text had originally appeared in the Jornal do commercio de Lisboa, 27 February and 1, 4 and 9 March 1864. Added here are related texts generated by the Ministerio da Marinha, as well as articles from the Jornal do commercio of 3 ad 8 April the same year.

The author (1818-1888) was a military surgeon, secretary-general of the governments of Angola and Moçambique, as well as founder and editor of several periodical publications.

First Guide to Shell Collecting, with some of the Earliest Direct References To Collecting Shells in New Holland and the South Seas

*57. MAWE, John. The Voyager’s Companion, or Shell Collector’s Pilot; with instructions and directions where to find the finest shells; also for preserving the skins of animals; and the best methods of catching and preserving insects .... Fourth edition. London: Printed for and sold by the author, and by Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Green, 1825. 8°, contemporary leather-backed boards (front cover and first few leaves detached, as is the rear cover; spine somewhat defective), original publisher’s printed label (2.8 x 4.4. cm.) tipped on to front cover. Internally good to very good. Overall (due to the state of the binding) in less than good condition. Armorial bookplate of Joaquim de Sousa-Leão, made in England, signed in print with tiny initials (“W.P.”), dated 1927. Old rectangular illegible library stamp in upper blank margin of title page and lower blank margin of p. vii. (2 ll.), vii, 75, (1) pp., hand-colored aquatint frontispiece, hand coloured aquatint plate. $1,200.00

This book was the first guide to shell collecting, with some of the earliest direct references to collecting shells in New Holland and the South Seas. Mawe’s charming, rare guide to shell collecting was first published in 1804, without illustrations; only one surviving example of the first edition is known. The second edition is completely unrecorded. The third edition of 1821, with two color plates, is less rare, as is this fourth edition, enhanced by the two exquisite plates engraved by John Mawe. According to Stilwell, these were colored by Mawe’s wife, Sarah. The illustrations depict shells and fauna found in the far reaches of the world, including the South Seas, with shells of the Sandwich Islands (Hawaii), the Marquesas and Society Islands, Tahiti and New Zealand all discussed in the text.

The collecting of shells in New Holland is discussed on three pages: “Van Diemen’s Land offers a vast field to the naturalist, particularly to the conchologist, zoologist and entomologist, who would be amply remunerated for whatever they might collect … ”; there is further mention of rare shells found by two boys on a whaling ship in Western Port.

Mawe (1764-1829), who spent many of his early years at sea, collected minerals in England for the King of Spain in the late eighteenth century. When war broke out between England and Spain in 1804, he was detained at Cadiz and then again at Montevideo. Only after Beresford captured Montevideo was he released. Soon after, he began a journey to Rio de Janeiro and then into Minas Geraes, which lasted two and a half years. After his return to England in 1811, he published Travels in the Interior of Brazil, particularly in the Gold and Diamond Districts of that Country, by Authority of the Prince Regent of Portugal, including a Voyage to the Rio de la Plata, and an Historical Sketch of the Revolution of Buenos Ayres (1812). Mawe opened a shop in the Strand and wrote books on mineralogy.

*58. MOURA, Caetano Lopes de. O livro indispensável, ou novíssima collecção de receitas, concernentes às artes, ofícios, e economia domestica e rural, collegidas das obras mais celebres, recentemente publicadas em França e Inglaterra. Paris: Na Livraria Portugueza de J.P. Aillaud, 1845. 12°, original green printed wrappers (short tear to front joint at head of spine). Uncut. Foxing, mostly light; minor toning. Overall in good to very good condition. (1 blank l., 3 ll.), 262 pp. $500.00

FIRST EDITION of this collection of practical recipes for the arts, industry and domestic use. There are sections on varnish for waterproofing and in various colors (gilt, tortoise-shell, etc.), for colors to paint on porcelain, for dyes, and for ink in various colors. Also covered are imitation gems, iron-working (with two American methods cited, pp. 54-5 and 57-8), making dry milk for use on long voyages, cleaning and coloring bronze and copper, stain removal, cosmetics and food preservation. The recipes were compiled from works recently published in France and England.

Lopes de Moura (1780-1860), an Afro-Brazilian author, native of Bahia, became involved in the Inconfidencia Bahiana of 1798 and later fought in the Peninsular War before establishing a medical practice in Paris. There he found that he could not live on his income as a physician, and so applied himself to writing and translating: he was responsible for the translation into Portuguese of several French medical books, as well as works of Sir Walter Scott and James Fenimore Cooper. His translations had such great influence in Brazil that D. Pedro II, hearing of his financial difficulties, awarded him a pension from his private purse.

Author’s signed and dated (“Out. 68”) six-line ink presentation inscription on the half title to Luís Forjaz Trigueiros. Occasional marginal highlighting of passages, presumably by Forjaz Trigueiros. 297 pp., (3 ll.). $50.00

FIRST EDITION of this collection of essays, including critical biographical sketches of Jaime Cortesão, André Bay, Francisco Gentil, Aquilino Ribeiro, and on a number of diverse topics, such as neo-realism, the wines of Cariñena, and vaccination. A second edition appeared the same year, a third in 1970, a fourth in 1976, a fifth in 1979, as well as a volume in the author’s Obras in 1991, and in his Obras completas in 1997.

Fernando [Gonçalves] Namora (1919-1989), a native of the village of Condeixa-a-Nova (near Coimbra and Conimbriga), was a distinguished physician with a degree in medicine from Coimbra University. He was also a significant, multi-prize-winning neo-realist poet, novelist, short story writer and essayist, at first influenced by the “Grupo da Presença”.

FIRST and ONLY EDITION.
Jose Bernardino Blanc de Portugal (Lisbon, 1914-2000) was a poet, essayist, music and literary critic, and translator of Shakespeare, T.S. Eliot, Truman Capote and Fernando Pessoa. He received a degree in geology from the Faculdade de Ciências of the Universidade de Lisboa, wrote several scientific books and papers on the subject, and worked for a number of years as chief meteorologist for Pan American Airways in Lisbon. Later he worked as meteorologist for the Portuguese national weather service in Lisbon, the Açores, Madeira, Cabo Verde, Angola and Moçambique. He also served as a sort of cultural attaché in Brazil (1973-1978), and was vice president of the Instituto de Cultura e Língua Portuguesa (1978-1982). Much of his poetry was published in reviews, such as Cadernos de poesia (of which he was one of the directors, along with Ruy Cinatti and Tomaz Kim; later with Jorge de Sena and José Augusto França), Aventura, Litoral, Tricórnio, A Serpente, and Grail. Besides the present work, his books of poetry are Parva Naturalia (1960; Prémio Fernando Pessoa), O Espaço Prometido (1960); Odes Pedestres (1965; Prémio Casa da Imprensa), and Enéadas (1959; Prémio do P.E.N. Club Português, for the body of his work). In addition to Elliot, he was influenced by Ezra Pound. His poems have been translated into French, Spanish, English, German and Swedish.

FIRST EDITION of this collection of critical essays referring to literary works and works of art produced prior to decolonization, with emphasis on Moçambique. There are chapters on “Colóquios Cabo-Verdianos”, “A influência do Ultramar na arte”, “Romance”, “Poesia”, “Ensaio”, “Teatro” and “Artes plásticas”. The opinions are often polemical, attacking some authors and defending others. The section on poetry features prominently female poets: Marília do Céo, Maria José de Bulhões Maldonado, Noémia de Sousa and especially Anunciação Prudente.

Funeral Oration for P. António Vieira, Portugal’s most Famous Jesuit Missionary and Author

*85. SOUSA, Manoel Caetano de. Oração funebre nas exequias do Reverendíssimo Padre Antonio Vieira ... que na Igreja de S. Roque fez celebrar o Conde da Ericeira ... 17 de Dezembro de 1697.... Lisboa Occidental: Na Officina de Joseph Antonio da Sylva, 1730. 4°, disbound, text block edges rouged from an early binding. Woodcut head-piece, tail-piece, and initial letters. Most sidenotes slightly cropped, with loss of 1-2 letters; 2 small holes in last 2 leaves, not affecting text. In good condition overall. (7 ll., 1 l. errata), 64 pp.; the unsigned errata leaf is bound in place of the missing (blank) leaf 4. $500.00

FIRST EDITION of this funeral sermon praising the great P. António Vieira’s work: the author describes Vieira’s style of oration and the effect it had upon an audience, as well as Vieira’s work as a Jesuit missionary, particularly in Maranhão. Sousa ingeniously uses Vieira’s accomplishments as “causas da morte, e dos triunfos”: he died “porque era hum Prégador tão Divino, hum Apostolo tão elevado, hum Missionario tão Angelico, que poderia o Mundo enganarse com elle, e entender que era mais que homem: por isso a Divina Providencia dispoz que morresse como homem, mas a Justiça Divina para o remunrar ainda nesta Mundo, ordenou, que na morte tivesse honras de Principe ....” On pp. 57-64 is a description of the decorations in the church for the funeral, which included paintings, trophies and emblems illustrating Latin epigrams. The work appeared again in Lisbon in 1748, and in two Spanish translations (Madrid, n.d. and Barcelona, 1734). Sousa (1658-1734) was one of the founders of the Academia Real da Historia.

In very good condition overall. Old ink inscription “Fr. Jose da Sacra Familia” above imprint on title page. (2 ll.), xv, 103, (1) pp. $650.00

FIRST and ONLY EDITION. The Relação covers most of Europe, Turkey, Tunis and Algeria (pp.1-76), as well as Angola, Moçambique, Goa, Bombay, Bengal, Persia, China, Japan and Brazil (pp. 77-99). A long introduction (pp. i-xv) discusses the currency of Portugal and general problems of valuing foreign currencies.

The Arco do Cego press (officially the Tipografia Chalcografica, Tipoplastica e Literraria, located in Lisbon at the Arco do Cego), was established in 1800 at the insistence of D. Rodrigo de Sousa Coutinho, Minister of State, who realized the need to spread information on new techniques in the arts, industry and agriculture in Portugal and Brazil. He proposed to do this by publishing both original works and Portuguese translations of recent foreign works on those subjects. The director of the press (and author of the Relação) was José Mariano da Conceição Veloso (1742-1811), a native of Minas Geraes and a noted botanist; he was assisted by many young Brazilians living in Lisbon. The Arco do Cego was well equipped, with its own foundry for making type, its own presses and its own designers and engravers, two of whom—Romão Eloy and Ferreira Souto—later introduced the art of engraving to Brazil. The press produced a relatively large number of works, but in 1801 it was incorporated into the Regia Oficina Typografica, also known as the Impressão Regia and later as the Imprensa Nacional.
